DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments filed 12/14/04 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. In Yasuda reference, the air inside can communicate with the air outside because the bearings can be ball bearings. See Kono et al. (5,448,119) for structure of a ball bearing with inner ring (28), outer ring (30), and balls (32) with space between the balls.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1 and 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Yasuda (5,889,349).

Regarding claims 1 and 3, Yasuda shows a vibrator (Figures 1, 10 and 11) comprising:

- A vibration motor (Figures 1 and 10) having:
- A rotary member (1);
- A base (61) on which said rotary member is mounted; and
- A cover (62) provided on said base covering said rotary member; and
- A printed circuit board (108) on which said vibration motor is mounted,

- Wherein said cover (33) has an air-hole (and bearing-hole) so that air inside the vibration motor communicates with air outside of the vibration motor (because of the use of ball bearings.)

Conclusion

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
